Rebecca Gratz (1781-1869), of Philadelphia, established in 1838 the first Jewish Sunday School in the United States. Miss Gratz, a notable communal worker in the general and Jewish communities, was an observant Jew and one of the most cultured women of her generation.